

TORONTO BUILDING
GREAT HARBOR FOR OCEANGOING SHIPS

City Gets $25,000,000 Project Prepared for Deep St. Lawrence.

By ARTHUR M. EVANS.

TORONTO, July 13.—Members of the expedition of state and federal officials and business leaders investigating the feasibility of making the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes navigable for oceangoing traffic got an eye-opener when they steamed into Toronto Bay soon after daylight Tuesday and viewed the harbor improvements.

Here is an inland port which, in spite of the general industrial slump, is going ahead full steam with a $25,000,000 harbor enterprise of broad vision. The greater part of the work has already been done at a cost of $14,000,000 and when it is completed Toronto will have a deep water port which will accommodate vessels of any draft.

Owned by City.

And, unlike many other cities, 99 per cent. of the water frontage is owned by the municipality and eventually it will have it all. Thus the development is neither controlled or retarded by private rail or shipping interests, and it is also divorced from politics.

The great significance of the fundamental fact in all this is that Canada is preparing for a period of great industrial development. It is a promise that volume of business is measured by capacity of the carriers. And Toronto is bringing together water, rail, electric and motor truck agencies in one comprehensive scheme.

For the last two years the harbor commission has been bringing in new industries at the rate of one every ten days. And most of them are American plants which are putting up branch factories on this side of the boundary.

It is a gigantic project, with more aspects than the purely commercial one. From the Humber River (located in the harbor) nearly four miles of park and recreation ground have been filled in. Along the inner harbor 190 acres have been reclaimed for a warehouse district, light manufacturing district, with water, rail, interurban and motor truck facilities. Seven hundred more acres have been filled in for a heavy industrial district, which will eventually embrace over 1,000 acres.

This "made" land is being leased on 21-year renewable leases on the basis of rent amounting to 5 per cent a year on the cost of the improvement. As fast as the reclaimed lands become stable, streets are laid out and improvements put in, and today there are nearly three miles of such thoroughfares and five miles of sidewalks in the new industrial district.

May Make Treaty
To Terminate War

A treaty or protocol between the United States and Germany may be necessary to bring about the technical state of peace aimed at by the Knox-Forster resolution.

Attorney General Daugherty said Tuesday this is a question he will have to clear up before deciding whether a Presidential proclamation is one of the steps requisite to the ending of the war.

It may be that a treaty "of four or five lines at least" may have to precede even a Presidential proclamation, the Attorney General said. It will be a week or two before he can prepare an opinion, he added.

CITIZEN CHARGES
POLICEMAN WITH HOLDING HIM UP

Ernest Hunt Placed Under Arrest to Await Investigation.

Ernest Leroy Hunt, a policeman of the Second precinct, was arrested by Detectives Salkeld and Fowler, of the First precinct, Tuesday on suspicion of being one of two parties who used a police badge to gain custody of a party whom they later attacked and robbed last Saturday night.

Hunt was arrested after David Williams, of 325 Vermont avenue northwest, identified him as one of the men who approached him at Fourteenth and H streets northwest last Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock, and pretended to place him under arrest. Williams told police that Hunt was the man who flashed his badge and claimed he was a plain-clothes man. He said the two led him to Fifteenth and L streets northwest, and there attacked him, both knocking him down. While he lay on the ground, Williams says, the two ransacked his pockets and took $129 in bills. He says they attempted to pull a $5,000 diamond ring from his finger, but were frightened away.

Williams reported the case to police of the Third and First precincts. In company with Detectives Salkeld and Fowler, Williams was taken to police court Tuesday to look over policemen there. He identified Hunt, police say.

Hunt was on trial in police court yesterday on a charge of having sold his police uniform and revolver. Federal property. He was suspended from the force of the Second precinct Sunday, police say. Hunt denied any connection with the Williams case and said he had never seen the man. Hunt was lodged in the First precinct station pending investigation.
